Fund Commentary

The Fund outperformed its benchmark, the S&P/ASX 300 Accumulation Index over the six months to June 2011. Our overweight position to mineral sands explorer Iluka Resources contributed to relative performance. During the period the company reported its full year profit of $36.1 million reflecting higher sales volumes, higher zircon prices and increased contribution from its higher margin operations. Our overweight position to Coal & Allied Industries detracted from relative performance. The company provided its quarterly production report for March 2011 stating that coal sales were 12% lower than the previous quarter, yet 22% higher than the corresponding period last year. Coal & Allied also extended its contract and relationship with Asciano's Pacific National Coal haulage business.

Market Review

The Australian market, as measured by the S&P/ASX 300 Accumulation Index, fell 1.2% over the six months to June 2011. The first quarter saw early gains as commodity prices increased and macroeconomic data improved, however the market's rise was tempered by scenes of unrest of Middle East and North Africa and the impact of natural disasters in Australia and New Zealand. The tragic Japanese tsunami added to negative sentiment as investors feared disruptions to global supply chains and the impact of radiation from the damaged Fukushima reactors. Markets rallied temporarily, yet before long weaker than anticipated economic data, both domestically and abroad, saw investors adopt a cautious stance through to the end of the financial year. Falling commodity prices also negatively impacted local stocks.

Outlook

The global economy is continuing to experience several headwinds including concerns of subdued growth in the United States and the ongoing sovereign debt crisis in Europe. Domestically, the strength of the Australian dollar, a cautious consumer and the potential for further increases in interest rates have put pressure on the earnings of many Australian companies. Despite these concerns, value is emerging in the Australian share market and opportunities exist to identify companies with the potential to outperform. In this environment, the market tends to favour quality companies with strong balance sheets that are well placed to withstand any future shocks. We continue to research and invest in such companies with recurring earnings, low debt and sound management which we believe have the potential to add value over the medium to long-term.
