MARKET COMMENTARY

Financial markets weakened broadly during March. Equities – led by US stocks – sold off on the softening outlook for US growth alongside concerns surrounding US trade policy and the anticipation of further tariffs.

Domestic bond yields were mixed and the yield curve steepened with long term yields rising while the short end rallied marginally. The RBA held the Target cash rate unchanged at their April 1st meeting, retaining a cautious outlook despite the continued decline in underlying inflation. Futures markets continued to price in an expected May rate cut. In the US, the Federal Reserve maintained rates at the current level with minimal changes to the dot-plot projections and US bond yields edged higher. The most notable move in global bonds yields was in Germany where 10-year bund yields rose 30bps following the announcement of increased infrastructure and defence spending.

Credit spreads widened during March as successive tariff and foreign policy announcements led to elevated volatility. The Australian iTraxx Credit Default Swap index moved sharply higher while physical spreads were more muted, also ending the month higher. Corporate spreads – led by infrastructure – and utilities saw the most substantial spread widening. Financial spreads, led by major banks were somewhat more resilient. Swap to bond spreads moved further into negative territory, reaching a historic low in mid-March before reverting marginally by month end.

Primary market issuance remained orderly throughout March, even as spread volatility was heightened. Transgrid printed a $1.4B corporate hybrid which was well received. NAB came to market with a senior unsecured deal raising $2.75B across fixed and floating tranches. Securitisation deal flow was robust and continued to meet demand. Towards the end of March, the impact of economic uncertainty and market volatility was felt via smaller volumes and a delayed corporate deal from Worley.

PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The Perpetual Diversified Income Fund returned 0.11% during March, underperforming its benchmark by 0.24%.

Credit spread dynamics detracted from performance during March. Spreads expanded on aggregate with higher beta sectors including subordinated and hybrid widening more sharply. Subordinated offshore bank exposures were the key detractors from credit spread return. A small number of EUR denominated Additional Tier 1 bank hybrids also widened. This was also observable among non-financial corporate holdings where the Fund's position in a subordinated floating rate bond from rail freight group Pacific National sold off. The Manager elected to lengthen exposure to a long dated Pacific National at below fair value after spreads sold off. The impact of spread volatility was partially offset by tightening securitised spreads. The Fund retains an elevated exposure to RMBS alongside CMBS and ABS which were resilient in March.

The Fund's yield premium above bank bills was a substantial contributor to performance during the month, mitigating the impact of widening credit spreads. Allocation to RMBS and offshore banks remain the key contributors to income return. The portfolio's running yield was 5.7% at month end, with the spread (credit yield premium) measured at 1.5%.

The Manager was active throughout March, taking advantage of spread volatility to purchase assets at attractive valuations. Early in March, the Fund took part in the new deal from Transgrid, which performed well on the break allowing the manager to lock in profits, liquidating the position before spread widening accelerated. The Fund also added USD denominated subordinated paper from NAB and Macquarie. Allocation to ABS and REITs sectors was increased as exposure to non-conforming RMBS was trimmed.

The outlook for credit worsened throughout March and the Fund remains defensively positioned. The Fund maintains its liquidity via an elevated cash allocation, retaining capacity to take advantage of relative value opportunities presented by market volatility. The Manager continues to look for attractively priced issues and relative value opportunities while carefully managing credit and liquidity risks.

OUTLOOK

The credit outlook deteriorated further during March, ending the month with a solidly negative reading.

Valuation indicators remain marginally negative. While spreads widened over the month, US investment grade, high yield and domestic investment grade spreads remain at the tighter end of their historical ranges. Negative swap to bond spreads continue to weigh on the valuation outlook. Recent market conditions have discouraged offshore and opportunistic domestic issuers during March, returning the indicator to neutral.

The macroeconomic outlook remains negative reflecting softening growth data and disruptive US trade policy. The ratio of upgrades to downgrades normalised during March.

Supply and demand indicators decline to negative during the month. Market demand has softened in a context of rising volatility and economic uncertainty. Elevated recent issuance volumes continue to weigh on the outlook.

Technical indicators worsened across the board during March, ending the month with negative aggregate score. Intermediary positioning, US credit spreads, equity markets and equity market volatility indicators entering negative territory.

In a context of heightened volatility across credit markets and mounting macroeconomic pressure, the team remains vigilant in assessing and actively managing portfolio risks.
