MARKET COMMENTARY

The S&P/ASX300 gained 3.9% in February, reaching new highs for a third consecutive monthly advance, leaving the market 9.7% above November lows. It was a two speed market: large cap Materials and Financials led the charge, with the major banks delivering standout returns (CBA +16.8%, NAB +15.8%), while Technology continued its painful de rating, now down 39.3% over six months as AI disruption fears lingered. Health Care lagged, dragged by CSL's weak earnings and abrupt CEO departure. The divergence between large and small cap was large, with the Top 20 stocks outperforming the Small Ordinaries Index by 10.5%, the largest cap since June 2013. Macro conditions tightened further, with the RBA hiking 25bp to 3.85% and flagging additional moves if inflation remains stubborn. January CPI surprised to the upside, with electricity costs surging as government rebates unwound. Labour markets stayed tight, keeping pressure on the board.

PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The portfolio's largest overweight positions include Washington H. Soul Pattinson, News Corporation and Ramsay Health Care Limited. Conversely, the portfolio's largest underweight positions include Macquarie Group Ltd (not held), Westpac Banking Corporation and Commonwealth Bank of Australia.

Ramsay Health Care delivered a standout performance in February as the company rallied + 18.5% for the month. Management continued to execute effectively, announcing the much anticipated in specie distribution of the Ramsay Santé shareholding which will further highlight the quality of the Australian assets and also sends a signal to the market around the core strategy for Ramsay moving forward. Ramsay posted solid half year results, demonstrating operational momentum as earnings improved significantly with Australian EBIT margins expanding and admissions growth reflecting a deliberate shift toward higher acuity, higher margin services. Capital discipline is also improving, with full year capex tracking below guidance and the new Joondalup private facility delivered under budget. Ramsay represents an opportunity for investors to gain exposure to high quality infrastructure like assets, with the transformation initiatives which are well underway and starting to be seen in the financials, as well as the improving operational efficiencies not reflected in the current share price.

The overweight position in a2 Milk contributed to portfolio performance in February's reporting season as the company rallied strongly on the back of a compelling half year result. Revenue grew 18.8% to $993.5 million, with broad based momentum across all segments, a result that reflects brand strength rather than any single geographic or channel tailwind. The China business remains the engine, with English label IMF delivering strong growth as premiumisation continues to support the category. Another encouraging sign is an acceleration in products beyond infant formula into adjacent categories such as kids and seniors' nutrition. The headline gross margin was marginally softer due to expected manufacturing underutilisation at the newly acquired a2 Pokeno facility, though this is transitory, with the transition of a2 Platinum production from Synlait scheduled for 1H27. The balance sheet remains strong with nearly $900 million in net cash providing capacity for continued investment and capital returns. The company's focus on premiumisation and innovation across different life stages positions it well to capture market share in a challenging environment such as China's declining birth rate. We remain optimistic about a2 Milk's growth trajectory, supported by its strategic investments and product diversification.

Flutter was the fund's largest negative contribution in February, declining 36.8% during the month and continuing the recent run of weak performance. A key driver of the de rating has been the emergence of prediction market operators that offer event contracts on sports outcomes, operating outside operating outside the traditional state licensed online sports betting (OSB) framework and therefore not subject to the same tax and regulatory structures. This has introduced structural uncertainty around the competitive and regulatory moat that Flutter's FanDuel business has built. The more disappointing aspect of the Flutter result from our perspective, was the underperformance of FanDuel's OSB division in Q4. This was driven by operational missteps where the company mis managed the timing of its generosity offers. The company has a clear playbook to improve on this in 2026 and given the expertise and quality of the offer we expect this to be a short term aberration. Overall, the recent share price weakness has been driven by a combination of factors. In our view, the market has assumed all are structural and related to prediction markets. We expect that throughout 2026, some of the transitory drivers of recent weakness will reverse providing clarity on the actual impact of prediction markets.

News Corporation detracted from performance in February, declining 13.7% over the month. The share price was pressured by heightened market concerns that artificial intelligence could erode the competitive moat of REA Group ( 12.31%), in which News Corp holds a 61% stake. Additional sentiment headwinds came from ongoing structural challenges within the News Media division and softer conditions in US book publishing. The fund continues to hold News Corp as we believe REA has made targeted investments across its value chain that defend its moat against AI disruption. REA is deploying AI offensively, through natural language and visual search, automated valuations and enhanced content, to keep discovery, engagement and monetisation on platform. Furthermore, we believe the current share price implies that the market is valuing the highly profitable Dow Jones and Information Services divisions at heavily discounted multiples.

OUTLOOK

The global economic landscape in 2026 is starting to reflect a transition to broader, steady expansion. This expansion is no longer a "tech only" story; instead, a significant sector rotation is underway. Investors are pivoting from overextended growth stocks toward cyclical sectors specifically Industrials, Materials, and Energy which are benefiting from a synchronised global manufacturing uptick. This shift is anchored by exceptional commodity strength. Copper's climb to record highs reflects this and Gold's sustained levels above US $5,400 signal both industrial demand for the AI driven grid build out and a strategic hedge against persistent "higher for longer" yields and persistent inflation and USD debasement fears. While the tech heavy S & P 500 faces valuation headwinds, broader indices like the S & P/ASX300 and Nikkei 225 are hitting milestones, fuelled by "old economy" earnings. With Global Manufacturing PMIs consistently in expansion territory, the data confirms a broadening recovery where traditional value sectors are finally reclaiming their leadership in the global portfolio.
