GROWTH OF $10,000 SINCE INCEPTION

MARKET COMMENTARY

The S&P/ASX 300 returned 2.13% in July 2026, the fourth consecutive monthly gain, closing within 1.25% of all-time highs after a late-month break higher. Energy led sectors (+12.06%) as bombing resumed in the US-Iran war. Financials (+5.79%) outperformed on bank strength even as housing stayed weak and federal CGT changes created uncertainty. Health care (+2.17%), consumer discretionary (+1.11%) and communication services (+1.07%) also rose. Information technology was weakest (-4.78%) on US AI-trade weakness in data centre names. Industrials (-1.40%) fell as defence names Electro Optic Systems and DroneShield dropped -35.1% and -30.0% respectively. Utilities (-0.95%), materials (-0.92%) and real estate (-0.39%) also declined, with materials mixed as rare earths and lithium lagged while base metals and select gold miners gained. In domestic macro news, the RBA did not meet in July. Employment firmed while Q2 trimmed mean CPI undershot expectations, and Governor Bullock reiterated a cautious, inflation-focused stance.

PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The portfolio's largest overweight positions include Washington H Soul Pattinson, Ramsay Health Care and EVT Limited. Conversely, the portfolio's largest relative underweight positions include Commonwealth Bank, Westpac and Macquarie Group.

Mainfreight returned 15.23% for the month, buoyed by a strong trading update at its AGM on July 30. It is pleasing to see the release showed strength across all segments and locations, where at the May update the strength of the Australian segment offset weakness elsewhere. The July update showed New Zealand, Australia, Americas, Europe and Asia all reporting PBT growth in the first 16 weeks, with the Americas returning to profit and Europe delivering more than a doubling of PBT. We have previously written about how MFT is a high-quality cyclical that will benefit from material operating leverage once the cycle turns. This update provides evidence that this is underway. First-16-weeks revenue increased 17.7%, however PBT increased 78.1%. Transport and Warehousing were the key proof points, with PBT up 125.1% and 90.2%, respectively, signalling that recent network investment is indeed translating to better utilisation and operating leverage. Looking forward we still see upside to the stock underpinned by the ongoing growth in the more mature markets, encouraging progress in developing locations and a below mid-cycle environment.

AMP returned 33.96% in July, driven by an earnings upgrade announced on 16 July. The largest contributor was a 24% increase in profit from its Chinese partnerships between 2H25 and 1H26, with higher investment earnings and higher North guarantee fees also contributing. The Chinese partnerships largely relate to AMP's 19.99% interest in China Life Pension Company, which holds a 30% share of the employer sponsored Chinese pension market. These partnerships are expected to deliver returns of 12% to 15% per annum, and the related funds under management have grown at an average rate of 12% per annum over the past four and a half years. Chinese partnerships now account for approximately one-third of AMP's group profit. We continue to hold the stock for several reasons: further growth potential in the Chinese partnerships, the improving profitability of its domestic platform business and the upside available from lifting returns in the currently underperforming banking business.

Cobram Estate Olives (CBO) declined 26.4% in July, though the fall was softened by a 14.5% gain over the final four trading sessions of June. The decline was driven in part by CBO's July 7 harvest and business update, with the stock falling 6.25% on the day. CBO announced that California Olive Ranch (COR) earnings will not reach the earn-out hurdle, which requires EBITDA above US $7.125m in 1H26 for a maximum payment of US $15m, and disclosed a dispute with the COR sellers over a purchase price adjustment of US $31.9m, with no further detail provided. The market reacted negatively to both the near-term underperformance of the COR business and the uncertainty surrounding the dispute. The 2026 Australian harvest also weighed on sentiment, producing 12.1m litres of olive oil, of which 10.6m litres came from Cobram owned groves, below some broker estimates. Importantly, however, 12.1m litres is enough to carry sales of Cobram's branded and private label products through to the 2027 Australian harvest. Despite the recent negative sentiment, we remain confident in Cobram's ability to navigate these short-term issues and realise value from the COR acquisition, leveraging its strong market position and the tailwinds from grove maturity, synergies and scale.

Iluka Resources (ILU) fell 14.43% in July amid a sector-wide selloff in rare earth exposed companies, with Lynas and MP Materials (MP-US) declining 22% and 27.14% (in AUD terms) respectively. ILU's share price recovered in early August, and at the time of writing, is trading back above July levels. This rebound was preceded by a strong June quarter result, released on 28 July, which highlighted accelerated inventory drawdown, improved cash generation and reduced balance sheet risk. Off the back of pricing and volume strength, mineral sands net debt declined by A $144m during the quarter to A $273m. Our constructive outlook for the stock is partly due to the construction of the rare earths refinery at Eneabba, which will drive strong earnings growth once it ramps up in mid-2027. Progress towards this has been supported by two milestones reached in June. First, ILU announced that it signed a binding, multi-year magnet rare earth oxide (MREO) supply agreement with an unnamed global automotive company. Second, the Australian Government confirmed the drawdown of the A$400m Tranche 2 non-recourse loan to finish construction of the Eneabba refinery.

OUTLOOK

It remains a difficult environment for long term fundamental investors with macro themes continuing to dominate as the Iran war, Russia-Ukraine fighting, rising political populism, tariffs, the AI capex boom and inflation challenges offering competing narratives and buffeting the market in different directions day after day. This exposes stock pickers to a lot of risk that is both unrewarded and difficult to anticipate. Rather than worry about the headlines we cannot control, we continue to focus on the things we can – including building a portfolio of businesses with strong balance sheets, low leverage, durable earnings and pricing power – purchased at reasonable valuations. That combination – financial robustness plus a valuation margin of safety – is what allows a portfolio to absorb geopolitical shocks without permanent capital impairment, rather than chasing momentum in whichever sector the latest headline favours.
