

TO SEE THROUGH OTHER'S EYES

PERPETUAL

16/11/2015

One of the world's leading futurists says empathy is one of the prerequisites for success in the new digital age

Jamais Cascio was named one of Foreign Policy magazine's top 100 Global Thinkers and is a distinguished fellow at the Institute for the Future in Palo Alto.

He believes the next 50 years will certainly be a time of uncertainty and change, as the world becomes more connected via digital networks, surveillance a way of life and man and machine become more symbiotic.

Jamais Cascio, Futurist

In the second interview in our Performance with Purpose series The Australian's, Robert Gottlieb talks with Jamais Cascio of the Institute for the Future about the importance of empathy – and how mistakes teach us crucial lessons in life and business.
