MARKET COMMENTARY

Financial markets remained buoyant throughout January, consolidating on a strong finish to 2023 for credit, bonds and equities. The easing macroeconomic outlook, the substantial repricing of US monetary policy expectations and the subsequent fall in discount rate has fuelled the robust rally in risk assets. Equity markets continued to rally with the recent fall in bond yields contributing to strong outperformance for higher duration cyclical growth sectors.

Domestic credit spreads were placid following a strong rally in the fourth quarter of 2023. Corporate spreads outperformed financials, bucking the recent trend which has seen sustained outperformance of financial spreads, led by domestic and offshore banks. Offshore spreads continued to rally with Euro denominated credit performing notably well.

Domestic bond yields were subdued in January. The yield curve steepened slightly as 10-year yields rose marginally to be back above 4% by month end. Global long term yields also saw rises most notably the UK where 10-year yield lifted 36bps. Most global yield curves remain inverted despite the easing recession concerns.

Primary markets were active during January – counter to the typical seasonal trend – with a number of financial issuers taking advantage of robust demand. Westpac and ANZ raised $5.1B and $5B respectively, of senior paper. Tier-two issuance was also robust with ANZ ($2.285B) and NAB ($1.75B) coming to market with subordinated deals.

PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The Fund's income premium above bank bills remains a key source of outperformance. The portfolio's running yield was 5.7% at month end, with the spread (credit yield premium) measured at 1.4%.

Credit spread dynamics remain the most substantial contributing factor to outperformance over the month. Domestic credit spreads traded in range of recent levels, while offshore spreads – most notably EUR denominated – continued to rally. The Fund's exposure to domestic and offshore banks was the most significant contributing sector, led by USD and EUR denominated subordinated paper. Elsewhere, a small number of foreign denominated issues across utilities and railroad sectors also contributed. Note that all foreign currency exposures are hedged.

The Manager took the opportunity to rebalance, reducing the Fund's capital structure risk by taking profit on a number of strong performing hybrid positions. The Manager sees the upside in corporate hybrids as fully priced in and locked in recent gains. The Fund's weighted average life was also selectively shortened as the flattened credit curve is offering unsatisfactory reward for longer dated issues.

The Fund was active in primary and secondary markets during the month. The Manager added new issues from Credit Agricole and Banco Santander to the portfolio while monetising new issue concessions on benchmark deals from Westpac and ANZ. Throughout the month, the Manager actively traded government and semi-government bond positions, taking advantage of low transaction costs and high liquidity to express tactical duration positions. These positions performed well over the month, contributing to outperformance before liquidating by month end.

The Fund is positioned for what looks like an inflexion point in markets. The outlook for credit is improving but remains delicately balanced. The Manager continues to look for attractively priced issues and relative value opportunities while carefully managing credit and liquidity risks.

OUTLOOK

The credit outlook remained unchanged in January before improving to neutral in the first week of February.

Valuation indicators remained marginally negative throughout January. US High Yield spreads are tight relative to recent levels, detracting from the outlook. Domestic swap spreads have widened from their recent lows and are now neutral.

Robust economic print and improving lending conditions have reduced the negative impact of macro indicators. The Fed's Senior Loan Officer's survey showed improving financial conditions while the resilient US economy and better-than-expected inflation data eased the pressure on the outlook for spreads.

Market demand has improved providing a tailwind for the credit, increasing the supply and demand outlook to neutral. Above seasonal trend issuance volumes over recent months continue to weigh on the outlook although market demand is healthy reflected in oversubscribed primary market deals and robust secondary market liquidity.

Technical indicators remained positive in January with US credit, equity and equity volatility all positive. Cash levels among real money accounts and intermediary positioning are neutral.
